Ladybirds Class News

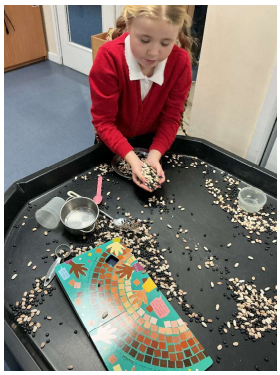

For Black History Week, we have been inspired by some important Black people and celebrated how they have influenced the world around us. We looked at art by the painter Jean Michel Basquiat and children enjoyed creating their own paintings using bold colours. We also learned about the astronaut Mae Jemison and we explored sensory 'moon sand' and role played blasting off into space! We also read the story 'Kakadu Jack', a story about a cheeky parrot at a market. Children loved interacting with the parrot puppet and some children also tried different fruits from the story. We then listened to some reggae music and used the percussion instruments to make our own music.

As it is Hermione's birthday on Sunday, she has kindly brought in a squishy cow toy for each child in class - thank you Hermione!
